Description

The Aston Martin DB4 is a grand tourer produced by Aston Martin from 1958 until 1963.

Technically the DB4 was not a development of the DB Mark III it replaced. It had a platform rather than a tubular chassis with a new engine by Tadek Marek. The DB4's design formed the basis for later Aston Martin models, such as the DB4 GT Zagato, the Lagonda Rapide 4-door saloon.

Over 1200 Aston Martin DB4's were produced including convertibles and the 19 Zagato bodied cars along with Bertone bodied cars.

Over the three years of production the car changed a number of times from the DB4 to a series 2, 3, 4 and five with feature and design changes and some engine power increases.

This particular Aston Martin DB4 series two was built for the export market to left hand drive configuration for the French market. Sold on 1 November 1960 by the Paris distributors Garage Mirabeau to its first owner in France.

The car was purchased by Mr Geoff Harris who had a vision in 1990 to convert a Aston Martin DB4 into a Aston Martin DB4 GT Zagato racecar. The car was given to Clive Smart of Shapcraft in Northampton the world-renowned steel and aluminum fabricators of some of the most impressive classic motorcars in the world.
